

Courthouse additions

Boone County officials hope to use referendum dollars to pay for more than 26,000 square feet of additions to the Public Safety Building, a headquarters that city and county police share. County officials also hope to use some of the $1.6 million in revenue generated from the sales tax increase to pay for some of the 11,400 square feet of additions to the County Courthouse, which needs a fourth courtroom, among other things.

 PROPOSED PSB AND COURTHOUSE ADDITION

 FUTURE COURTHOUSE ADDITION

Source: Boone County administration

ROCKFORD REGISTER STAR